Talking Man to Man

Talking with Gus is really important to me. Every week we sit and sweat like dogs in the change room and Gus and I will just talk. We talk about all sorts of things, current events, politics, sports; all of it - man to man. That's how I found out Kruex was designed by men like us, with our lifestyles and needs in mind, like Gus said, "If you're old enough to play, then you're old enough to want to stop the itch." Kruex does stop the itch and it works without infringing upon other activities when you're an active man. Talking man to man is really important. If I didn't, I would still be pretending to look for loose change in my pockets.

Ode to AST.

By Rino Anastasio

Just over a week left of classes before our exterminations through examinations, so I thought this would be a good time to finally express my voice for a class in which I don't know a single individual, which doesn't matter because they don't know me either, but probably could match my face with the name if a photo had been provided but no way! I'm still the unknown "Watcher of the Skies" (thanks Genesis), "Admirer of Heavenly Bodies" and "Eclipsor of Potential Disasters" - sweeping the cosmic dust under the rug as it were. But I may have to expose my "features" (yuk, yuk) next year, as I have been appointed Sports Editor for the never-read, never-cared-for newspaper.

Anyway, on with the good stuff...My interests in astronomy grew to tremendous heights in high school when I had taken a space science course offered to eleventh and twelfth grades by the infamous Mr. Monks (yes, that is his real name).

Soon after, I encountered many interrogations in public washrooms, movie lineups, on porch swings, under bar room tables, beneath migrating geese and while sitting on cottage piers wishing that boat was mine.

If I had a wooden nickel for every time I was asked, "What's the distance to Jupiter?", I could probably be doing my own Cosmos talk-show - bringing in noted celebrities to discuss the latest gossip in the Astro Bizz and help to find a cure for that disease which strikes Solar

Frank overturned!

By Petter Grenur

It seems as if next year's ECSU may be plagued with controversy. Before the elections had finished, our future V.P. of Administration, Frank MacGrath, broke into the ECSU offices and wrecked havoc.

Mr. MacGrath started his reign of terror by jumping on the boardroom table and doing an Irish jig. As his movements built to a crescendo, he started screaming "Experience, Initiative, Organization!" When other ECSU members attempted to subdue MacGrath, he leapt off the table into the adjoining room. Unfortunately, due to his height, he banged his head against the door jamb and was knocked unconscious.

Three ECSU members suffered minor bruises as they tried to revive MacGrath (who kept flailing his arms wildly. Apparently, this is a natural reaction of Mr. MacGrath!). Everyone gave him a wide berth when he got up as suddenly as he went down.

MacGrath then walked to centre of the room and stood on his head! Everyone was astonished. Some of the weaker members of ECSU fainted. The others held their breath, waiting to hear MacGrath's demands; so, more people fainted, from lack of oxygen.

Finally, MacGrath spoke.

Of course, no one could

Why is Frank MacGrath upside-down? Read the article, silly!

understand him because he was upside-down. However, it has been deduced that his protest stems from his acclamation.

MacGrath refuses to budge until his demands are met. He keeps muttering, "But still, but still..."

At the moment, nothing can get him off his head, but ECSU has a plan: They are going to put a plate of grilled cheese sandwiches with ketchup near him. When he attempts to eat the sandwiches, he will be carted away to the psychology labs for testing.

Said Gail MacDonald (no relation to Ronald), "If that doesn't get him (MacGrath), nothing will."

Astronomers every eleven years: Sun spots.

Frankly, my phlegm-picking and pellet-making individuals, I really don't give a damn what Jupiter's distance is (although it is fun to calculate its present earth-distance on my Radio Shack Special). Everyone always thinks an astronomer is someone who stands on top of a soapbox and rambles off all these trivial facts about the planets. Gosh-golly, it makes me so MAD!

So far I have been using the term astronomer but actually my proper career name is astrophysicist. But you see, whenever I tell someone I want to be an astro-"you know what", their reaction is, "Huh? ...What's that?" So, after a million or so rap sessions of that reaction, I finally gave in to, "that simpler kind of layman's language" and now introduce myself as "astronomer", even though astronomer and astrophysicist are two entirely different things. But now, I get an even more sickening reaction: "Does that, like, have to do with the stars and, like, what sign you were born under and junk?"

Good God, where do these lobotomized brains come from? No people, that's "astrology" and has nothing to do with science. For further consultation on this cult-following which puts humanity's intelligence on an evolutionary scale lower than a protoplasms, as a bartender. Great balls o. solar prominences, the people I meet are so ignorant!

Anyway, I don't want to cut up this issue too much. So, at this point, I'd like to divert the topic and send this message out to Arlena: I muster a smile as I write this.

Feral child discovered

By Phlegm-breath

Last week, three Survey Science students found a young boy living wild in the brush of Erindale campus.

Apparently, the boy was abandoned by an English teacher who didn't get tenure. The boy was miraculously raised by the deer on campus.

The students were working on their final project when they discovered the boy grazing. They haven't decided on a name for the boy yet. It is a toss up between Bambi and Ralph.

Erindale's feral child has lunch.

Among my Souvenirs

It is expedient for us that one man should die for the people.
Caiphas

Yes it's over—the forty-eight hour paste-up sessions, the impossible deadlines, the stupid questions from ECSU directors et al (eg. Garth exactly what is a social event?), the impromptu story writing, the temperamental typesetting machine, misunderstandings. The famous “Are we having a good time yet?” party will have a permanent place in the annals of medium II history.

Despite all the possible horror stories the medium II has an irresistible charm which makes it impossible to leave without sentiment. Perhaps it's the people you meet and with whom you spend countless ungodly hours.

This year the medium II might not have gotten off the ground without the help of some dedicated Editorial Board and Staff members to whom I must express my gratitude.

Brian Vickers, this year's Sports Editor deserves a medal for caring meticulously about his section when certain Editors-in-Chief have yet to read a sports story. His effervescent sense of humour and his willingness to help us out of tight spots made many production nights memorable.

Peter Gruner—yes, the one we were all told over and over again was the greatest person in the world. The votes on that aren't all in yet but he certainly stands tall among entertainment editors. His lured imagination shone throughout the pages he produced.

Steve Falk has earned his accolades as Photo Editor. It was no easy task to schedule photographers, take photographs, spend countless nights developing and printing and find time to exercise his obvious creative talent on medium II cover shots.

Mr. Andy Spears' contribution to the photo department has been phenomenal. His flair for action photography and his willingness to take sports photos at odd hours of the morning made life a lot easier.

Painting the medium II boxes, PMT's, doing the mailing list each week, writing controversial features—Wilson's job. We can measure his success from the plethora of letters we received.

Finally, my congratulations must go to Ms. Patricia Meehan who will take over the leadership of medium II next year. The dedication she has demonstrated this year has been invaluable. Ms. Meehan's special talents should make a significant contribution to the development of all aspects of the newspaper next year.

The trouble is, now that it's all over, how will I spend Sunday afternoons? In T.S. Eliot's words:

“What shall I do now? What shall I do? I shall rush out as I am, and walk the street with my hair down so. What shall we do tomorrow? What shall we ever do?”

This house was hell and you merry devils did rob it of some taste of tediousness.

medium II pays off

Gosh! MediumIII! but do I love you more than ever today than I did yesterday! You've given me a 'new life' and a chance to show the world what I can do!

In short, you've helped me get a job!

Geel! And am I ever happy I joined III! I've never regretted that move - in fact I revelled in being part of the paper. Every second spent at the paper was sheer delight and fun: the people (the best ever!), the work (how I love it), the place (such a cozy 'hut'!).

"Can you work under pressure? What about long hours? Can you write reports and short articles? How about meeting deadlines well? Can you work in a team and yet be independent? How are you at interviewing people? At meeting top management?"

I answered positively to the questions my interviewer posed to me. Without my experience as the Production Manager of medium II, and my involvement with it, I would have had to answer negatively.

Being a visa student with zero work experience, zero relatives and connections in Canada can be difficult for one. I desired some good old-fashioned fun - studying was becoming a bore - and so I turned to medium II and IT. And what joy it was find that the experiences I had gained from was most invaluable. At last I had secured the Analyst job in a securities firm - my desired job!

Words cannot express my deepest gratitude for being given the chance to work on medium II. I have a lot to thank Barry McCartan and Garth Hardie for - they had persuaded me to run and join the paper. Without the voting staff too, I wouldn't have been in...and my interviewer wouldn't have been impressed enough to offer this job.

Thank you very much, medium II... and yes, I love you, every pica of you!!

Sincerely,
The Curb

Residence Council Discriminates

On Friday March 16, the Residence Council of Erindale passed a motion which would move the election of the Residence Council Chairman from the fall to the spring, specifically March 30. It was put forth with the reasoning that the new chairman (if elected in the Spring) would have certain organizational advantages. The new chairman would be able to confer with the old chairman during the final week of classes and the exam period. He/she would have all summer to plan events, and would be able to speak to freshmen at orientation.

The way I see it, Residence Council is being very shortsighted. By moving the election to the Spring, the Residence Council is denying the following year's 200 freshmen a chance to vote for the chairman of their residence. These 200 freshmen represent over 38% of the residence population. But the Residence Council doesn't see this as a great sin. With the elections in the Spring, the Residence Council has prevented any first year student from becoming chairman. They have also reduced, to almost nothing, the chances of second year student from becoming Chairman. It seems that the Council is very discriminatory toward the freshmen and sophomore residents. When the Residence Council defends themselves on this charge of discrimination, they explain that a freshman can be involved in any other residence committee. Well, the Finance Committee says that you have to have taken some Commerce courses to be a member. How many first year students have taken Commerce courses by this point? Probably none. The Discipline Committee does not want freshmen on their committee, because they don't know enough of the residence procedure. The Selection Committee is almost open, but it appears doubtful that a freshman would be on this committee. So that leaves the Social Committee. With an approx. 6 member executive this grossly underrepresents the freshmen students of residence. The position of Vice-Chairman, which was created in the Fall of '83, is now up to the discrimination of the new Chairman.

According to the minutes of the last meeting the new Chairman can now decide whether or not to have a Vice-Chairman. This means that the only possible influential position on Residence Council left to a freshman now has a whimsical existence. It would certainly be hard for the Residence Council to deny that they have any undue bias against the freshmen. Now that 200 first year students are effectively shut out of the Residence Council, just who are these people representing?

Some other cons to this motion is that the new Chairman cannot do anything definite, in the way of social events, without the approval of the Social Committee, which will still be elected in the Fall. So the whole argument that the Chairman may be able to expedite things is sort of a crock. A smooth transition, if at all necessary, can be carried out by having complete records of the previous year's events made out and kept for the next Council.

To top this farce off, only 9 people were at the meeting which passed this motion. Seven of these voted (Chairman and Vice-Chairman Abstaining). These seven people, out of 522 residents, represent about 1% of the residence community. As it is evident from the minutes, discussion on this topic, especially the cons, was limited. How can the Residence Council be so ignorant of the needs and desires of the residence community? The whole purpose of the Residence Council is to reflect, to a certain degree, the interests of the residents. How can they do this when they won't even know, and have not much chance of finding out, what 38% of the residents want.

M. Kaszuba,

The Government of Canada provides important post secondary education assistance.

Can we help you?

The Government of Canada provides support to post secondary education in a number of important ways. Here are some recent examples showing how the level of this support has been increasing:

Student Assistance

In March, 1983 the Government of Canada added $60 million to its student assistance programs for loans to full and part-time students and interest relief for borrowers who are disabled or on Unemployment Insurance. For 1982-83, the Government of Canada guaranteed $300 million in loans to 184,000 students.

Funding for the Post Secondary System

In 1984-85 the Government of Canada's financial support for post secondary education, provided through transfer payments to the Provinces, will total over $4.2 billion. This amount, which represents an increase of about $240 million over 1983-84, equals $167.60 for every person in Canada.

Athletes of the year

At the annual ECARA banquet, Charles Singh and Anne Haldiman were presented with male and female athlete of the year awards. Singh was involved with badminton, tennis, squash and basketball. Haldiman was President of ECARA this year and also won the Golden Award, for obtaining over 200 points in her four years at Erindale.

Anne Haldiman is also one of three nominees for the Female Interfaculty Athlete of the year. If she wins, it will be a first for Erindale.

Prez reviews 1984 Council

By Guy Lenoir

This year's President of the Erindale College Student Union (ECSU) thinks that the organization has served the students in significant ways this year.

One of ECSU's most important achievements, he feels, is defeating the proposed Ten Dollar Incidental Fee, which was stated ostensibly to go towards the Career Counselling and Placement Centre. This, he says, is one of the many things ECSU does for the students, which hardly anyone knows about.

The hiring of a new Pub Manager, Uwe Stoetzel, and the renovations to the Blind Duck - measures both long overdue - have contributed significantly to the smooth and efficient operation of the establishment.

Five cent photocopying is one of the most significant direct services which ECSU has offered this year. It came in quick and direct response to an obvious need after the administration raised its prices. The new photocopying card should make this service even more efficient.

The Rideboard is another direct student service of which ECSU is proud. However, the President feels that ECSU did not communicate enough with the students.

Two major achievements which should serve to facilitate the task of the next Council are the improvement of the working relationship between the administration and ECSU and the computerization of the ECSU offices. Records are easier to keep and update and it is easier to monitor ECSU services.

Overall, the President is satisfied with the Council's performance.

OETSnakes triumphant over Scum

By "Stump" Davis

Erindale witnessed a clash of floor hockey titans last week.

At stake was the Championship of Men's Intramural Floor Hockey. As might be expected the OET Snakes and Scum fought tooth and nail for the prized championship. This was easily one of the closest and most exciting playoff finals in recent memory.

Game 1 was a classic. Paul Ditommaso put the Snakes on the board early in the game. The Snakes' Ed Tos added another to boost his club to a 2-0 lead. Barry Brdar countered for Scum on a beautiful backhanded effort. John Jenkins then scored to again stake the OET Snakes to a 2 goal lead. Scum's Walter Grob rifled one into the net to cut the lead to 1 goal. Jenkins countered for the Snakes to retain the 2 goal differential.

At this point Scum opened the floodgates with three fast goals. John Hazineh twice, and Eka Liem scored on screen shots from the point to put Scum on top 5-4 at the half. This is the type of action comparable to an NHL contest between the Edmonton Oilers and the Quebec Nordiques.

The second period held more of the same. Scum got off to a fast start on a goal by Walter Tersigni to increase their lead to 2.

Defence was forfeited for pure offence, which was uncharacteristic of both clubs. John Jenkins scored again to make it a 6-5 game. Barry Brdar tallied another to return Scum to a two goal advantage. With time running out John Jenkins scored his fourth goal of the game for the Snakes to reduce Scum's lead to 1. In the waning moments of regulation time Gary Lipinski scored making overtime a necessity.

The overtime period was characterized by chippy and aggressive play. The defences tightened up and there was no scoring. As the five-minute overtime elapsed scoreless, a second overtime scenario was put into effect: a shootout.

With drama and flair Gary Lipinski outmanoeuvred Scum goalie, Claude Limberger, to lift a backhand shot into the net. No less dramatic was Snakes' goalie, Jeff Hoppen's, save on Barry Brdar to win the game. Final score after double overtime: OET Snakes 8, Scum 7.

Game 2 was another story. From the opening faceoff, Scum seized control of the puck and the play.

Barry Brdar opened the scoring immediately for Scum. Paul Lasiuk added another in short order. Barry Lipinski responded for the Snakes to cut Scum's lead to 2-1. Jerry Nazarovicz and Paul Lasiuk increased the Scum lead to 4-1 halfway through the opening stanza. Ed Tos cut the Snake deficit to two goals on a high shot to the top right corner. Pepino Lio, Barry Brdar and Eka Liem all scored to boost Scum to a 7-2 halftime margin.

The second period saw the Snakes rally. Paul Ditommaso, Ed Tos and Gary Lipinski all scored to make it a 7-5 game.

It was too little, too late.

A telling factor in the game was the OET Snakes' loss of composure. The Snakes were penalized 6 times during the game, 8 minutes in the second half along; including a 4 on 2 situation for Scum. The Snakes defence rose to the occasion but the offense ran out of time. Final score at the conclusion of game 2: Scum 7, OET Snakes 5.

The stage was set for the climactic Game 3. Unlike the wide open offence of the first two games, game 3 was won with defence.

The Snakes played a coordinated positional defence with tight checking and shot blocking. Notable OET Snakes blue-liners include Dave Adams, Andy Koo, Mark Lowry and Hardy Braschel. Paul Lastuk opened the scoring to put Scum up 1-0. Ed Tos tied the game shortly after. Lasiuk scored again, followed shortly by a goal by Eka Liem to boost Scum to a two goal advantage.

During the first two games the territorial position had favoured Scum, in game 3 it was more even. With three seconds to go in the first half, Paul Ditommaso scored for the Snakes to make it 3-2 for Scum at the half.

The second half got off to a fast start on a goal by Scum's Eka Liem. For the second time in this game and the nth time during the series, the OET Snakes trailed going into the second period. The Snakes are a second half team, and have been all season long. Thus they ran off a string of five unanswered goals to win the game and the Championship.

Gary Lipinski began the rally close on the heels of Liem's goal with a soft shot placed behind Limberger. Paul Ditommaso scored the equalizer. Then, on a beautiful behind-the-back pass from John Jenkins, Lipinski popped in the game winner. Ed Tos added two insurance markers (three goals on the game). The Snakes had won, final score Game 3: OET Snakes 7, Scum 4. The Snakes took the series two games to one.

To the OET Snakes: Congratulations. You showed the pride and poise, and that intangible "heart" all year long. To Scum: not condolences, but congratulations also on a good season and a great playoff performance. Scum are not losers, but rather are the Champions of Division I, and runners-up for the floor hockey Championship crown.

Scarborough defeats 'A' Team

By Rino Anastasio

Erindale was defeated in the second game of a best two-out-of-three final for the Sifton Trophy against a tough Scarborough team last Wednesday evening. The home court advantage for Erindale offered no backing as Scarborough was definitely the stronger team, possessing the edge in both offense and defence.

In the first game, held on Monday night, the two teams were evenly matched throughout the early minutes of the game. The climb of numbers on the scoreboard was fairly steady until the 21 point mark for Erindale. They went into a small slump and Scarborough took advantage of a breakaway. But Erindale's skill showed through again as the team came back with strict form. But Scarborough's determination also held on to leave them with the upper hand at 34-29 for the end of the first half.

Going into the second half, Erindale won the toss with Mike Drury quickly grabbing the ball and putting away a lay-up.

Two minutes into the game, W. Roberts for Scarborough took a breakaway but Charles Singh was right on his tail to stop a potential basket. Unfortunately, Charles was called for a hand foul on the play.

At the eleven minute mark, problems with regaining possession on the Erindale backboard began stirring, so at 10:55 Anthony Samuels was subbed in. But this and other strategies just weren't enough to break down Scarborough. For the last three minutes they gave it their all but Scarborough's stubborn determination began tiring the team; Scarborough was gifted with a slam dunk. At the final, the score was 75-67.

For the second game the team was loaded into cars and transported to Scarborough campus (I was surprised they actually made us pay a dollar for parking). The team looked poised and ready in warm-up; confident of a win. They put up one hell of a fight, although they lost in the end, and it was sad no Erindale fans were there to help boost the team's morale. This is one team of which we should all be proud.

The first half was similar to Monday's game with both teams maintaining a steady and equal progression on the scoreboard. With eleven seconds remaining, a time-out was called. And down by just one point, a high-screen approach was attempted with Charles Singh who made the basket, but Charles was unfortunately called for travelling, which gave Scarborough two free throws. The halftime score remained close, however: 34-31 for Scarborough.

Throughout the second half, Scarborough applied pressure causing another slump for Erindale. The team does not have much stamina to play under pressure and this was evident in the loss of accurate shooting. There seemed to be a magnetic repulsion going between the ball and hoop, as Erindale's shots just would not go in. And regaining ball possession was also another lingering problem in this game.

The guys stayed in there and gave it their all, attempting steals and interceptions. Late in the game it all became futile as Scarborough's spread grew to 19 points. In the end, it was a score of 74-55 as Scarborough captured the championship.

Erindale's disappointing loss brings to mind the defeat of our Olympic Hockey Team in February. Our A-team went so far, knocking off so many teams, only to tragically lose in the final. But congratulations are still deserving to the veteran team; you all did a fine job. And thanks for the beer, John.

Talking with Gus is really important to me. Every week we sit and sweat like dogs in the change room and Gus and I will just talk. We talk about all sorts of things, current events, politics, sports; all of it - man to man.

That's how I found out

Just over a week left of classes before our exterminations through examinations, so I thought this would be a good time to finally express my voice for a class in which I don't know a single individual, which doesn't matter because they don't know me either, but probably could match my face with the name if a photo had been provided but no way! I'm still the unknown "Watcher of the Skies" (thanks Genesis), "Admirer of Heavenly Bodies" and "Eclipsor of Potential Disasters" - sweeping the cosmic dust under the rug as it were. But I may have to expose my "features" (yuk, yuk) next year, as I have been appointed Sports Editor for the never-read, never-cared-for newspaper.

Anyway, on with the good stuff...My interests in astronomy grew to tremendous heights in high school when I had taken a space science course offered to eleventh and twelfth grades by the infamous Mr. Monks (yes, that is his real name).

Soon after, I encountered many interrogations in public washrooms, movie lineups, on porch swings, under bar room tables, beneath migrating geese and while sitting on cottage piers wishing that boat was mine.

If I had a wooden nickel for every time I was asked, "What's the distance to Jupiter?", I could probably be doing my own Cosmos talk-show - bringing in noted celebrities to discuss the latest gossip in the Astro Bizz and help to find a cure for that disease which strikes Solar

Frankly, my phlegm-picking and pellet-making individuals, I really don't give a damn what Jupiter's distance is (although it is fun to calculate its present earth-distance on my Radio Shack Special). Everyone always thinks an astronomer is someone who stands on top of a soapbox and rambles off all these trivial facts about the planets. Gosh-golly, it makes me so MAD!

It seems as if next year's ECSU may be plagued with controversy. Before the elections had finished, our future V.P. of Administration, Frank MacGrath, broke into the ECSU offices and wrecked havoc.

Mr. MacGrath started his reign of terror by jumping on the boardroom table and doing an Irish jig. As his movements built to a crescendo, he started screaming "Experience, Initiative, Organization!" When other ECSU members attempted to subdue MacGrath, he leapt off the table into the adjoining room. Unfortunately, due to his height, he banged his head against the door jamb and was knocked unconscious.

Three ECSU members suffered minor bruises as they tried to revive MacGrath (who kept flailing his arms wildly. Apparently, this is a natural reaction of Mr. MacGrath!). Everyone gave him a wide berth when he got up as suddenly as he went down.

MacGrath then walked to centre of the room and stood on his head! Everyone was astonished. Some of the weaker members of ECSU fainted. The others held their breath, waiting to hear MacGrath's demands; so, more people fainted, from lack of oxygen.

Finally, MacGrath spoke.

Of course, no one could

Frank overturned!

Why is Frank MacGrath upside-down? Read the article, silly!

understand him because he was upside-down. However, it has been deduced that his protest stems from his acclamation.

MacGrath refuses to budge until his demands are met. He keeps muttering, "Illustrious!"

At the moment, nothing can get him off his head, but ECSU has a plan: They are going to put a plate of grilled cheese sandwiches with ketchup near him. When he attempts to eat the sandwiches, he will be carted away to the psychology labs for testing.

Said Gail MacDonald (no relation to Ronald), "If that doesn't get him (MacGrath), nothing will."

astrophysicist. But you see, whenever I tell someone I want to be an astro-"you know what", their reaction is, "Huh? ...What's that?" So, after a million or so rap sessions of that reaction, I finally gave in to, "that simpler kind of layman's language" and now introduce myself as "astronomer", even though astronomer and astrophysicist are two entirely different things. But now, I get an even more sickening reaction: "Does that, like, have to do with the stars and, like, what sign you were born under and junk?"

Good God, where do these lobotomized brains come from? No people, that's "astrology" and has nothing to do with science. For further consultation on this cult-following which puts humanity's intelligence on an evolutionary scale lower than a protoplasm, as a bartender. Great balls o' solar prominences, the people I meet are so ignorant!

Anyway, I don't want to cut up this issue too much. So, at this point, I'd like to divert the topic and send this message out to Arlena: I muster a smile as I write this.

Feral child discovered

By Phlegm-breath

Last week, three Survey Science students found a young boy living wild in the brush of Erindale campus.

Apparently, the boy was abandoned by an English teacher who didn't get tenure. The boy was miraculously raised by the deer on campus.

The students were working on their final project when they discovered the boy grazing. They haven't decided on a name for the boy yet. It is a toss up between Bambi and Ralph.

Erindale's feral child has lunch.

NEWS BRIEFS

Elections off!

The 1984 EX-WHO Elections scheduled for Sunday March 32 have been cancelled.

After minutes of investigative reporting, the tedium moo has learned about this drastic change that will be announced publicly at a press conference later today.

When asked for an explanation, C. Scott McBumpkin, this year's CROW (Can't Read Or Write) replied that "It just doesn't matter."

Pressed for constitutional implications of incorporated body failing to elect a board of directors McBumpkin answered, "It's a bit of a squeeze. I mean the way the courts are bottled up now with constitutional issues means the EX-WHO case won't appear before a judge until 1990. I think the students will do okay without EX-WHO till then."

New CFRE

CFRE has changed the wording behind its call letters, from Radio Erindale, to Radio Encounter.

Following a recommendation to the McFrath-Latraine repot, the campus radio station has changed its format to that of a radio computer dating service.

The new station personnel include Gavin Kolding, noted philanthropist and author, and Park Malonio, who will serve as special liaison with the Dead Duck staff and patrons.

Sondar Fern, EX-WHO's famous socialite, is also reportedly interested in a financial position with the station, involving the handling of all expense accounts.

Principal pays

The tedium moo has recently acquired a top-secret documented circulated amongst the upper administrative staff.

In an attempt to further the recovery of College overhead costs, Vice Principal Ben Looks has sent a letter to Principal Paul Squirrel demanding immediate payment of rent for his occupation of the principal's house.

When asked for a comment, Ben Looks stated, "I'm just trying to cover all sources of revenue to make Erindale a better place to live and work."

Library cutbacks

Cutbacks have finally come to Erindale.

With the recent reductions in spending, Erindale Library has been forced to burn books to maintain a constant temperature of 10 degrees Celsius (40 F).

When asked for a comment, Mr. Smith, Head Librarian, stated, "Actually, we've received quite a few compliments for raising the temperature and increasing the lighting in here."

"Another benefit that we hadn't thought of, was that with fewer books, we can keep track of who's got which books out on loan much easier. Of course, this has meant an increase in Library to $10 per half hour for late books, but this has made Ben Looks, Vice Principal of Erindale, very happy, since College overhead costs are being paid for."

Free Food

Cleaver Foods, in an attempt to improve its relations with the staff and students of Erindale College has started to serve free food during lunch hours.

Students and faculty alike have flocked to scoop up as much as possible and take advantage of this generous offer.

Health Service have noted a small increase in complaints of stomach ailments.

"This is nothing out of the ordinary," stated Nurse Penny Silan.

Food and Beverages Manager, Red Scarlet, said, "I definitely think it's helped to improve the relations here at Erindale. I couldn't help but wonder though, if the disappearance of the orange cats has got any connection with Cleaver's success."

V.P. caught

Fave Tallet, EX-WHO V.P. (Vile Pig) of Finance has recently tapped into the University's complex computer system, EX-WHO's N.C.R.

When questioned as to why he attempted this, Tallet explained that he was trying to change the academic status of J.J. Dumbman, his roomie, from part-time to full-time, to meet the requirements for membership in the ECC (Erindale's Crooked Conspiracy).

Vandalism

In an attempt to prevent more Erindale teams from winning Athletic championships, the ECARA (Erindale Catering and Refuse Academy) van has become the victim of many sabotage attempts.

Efforts by local police to ticket overcrowded vehicles and towing stalled vans have yet to deter any Erindale women's team from winning.

Irene Driver, chauffeur and attendant said, "We believe it's the Smeth Biss organization trying to muscle in but we don't have proof." The tedium moo will watch out for more developments.

Editor walks?

On Monday March 26, rival newspaper editor of medium II (or rare), Garth Hardie, was seen walking down the 5-minute walk.

This rare event unfortunately was not photographed, and regrettably it will be a long time before Mr. Hardie may choose to be this radical again.

Gail MacDonald refused to tell the tedium moo what she thought of the outcome of the EX-Who elections. MacDonald claimed that she was all tied up.

Scarborough players go wild after winning game 2 in double overtime.

Erindale has a hard time

By Brian Vickers

In the quarterfinal game with University College our men's ice hockey team had little difficulty. But as you progress through the playoffs, it doesn't get any easier.

The Warriors were knocked out of the playoffs last Thursday night at Varsity Arena as they were defeated by Scarborough 7-6, in the third and final game of the semi-final series.

Erindale, who had no trouble with U.C. in the quarterfinals, came up against a very aggressive and competitive Scarborough team that never gave up, no matter what the circumstances.

The Warriors won the first game by the score of 2-1. According to Coach Ted Nesbitt, they were lucky to get the victory. Erindale goalie Pete Smith kept them in the game, especially in the first two periods when Scarborough had a number of power plays.

After two periods, Erindale was behind by two goals. They came back in the third period, scoring two quick goals to take the win. It was a game they were lucky to win—they could've been blown out.

Game two of the best-of-three semifinal was on Tuesday evening.

Erindale opened the scoring, four minutes into the first period, on a goal by Dan Barret with an assist going to Neil McKeown.

For about the first ten minutes of the first period, the Warriors were having difficulty getting the puck out of their own end. Scarborough was playing aggressively and fore-checking effectively. But at 11:55, the floodgates opened. In the next three minutes Erindale took a 4-0 lead on goals by Grey Gwynne, Stuart Hunter and Neil McKeown.

Scarborough got on the scoreboard with 49 seconds left in the first period. Anytime a team scores in the last minute of a period, the momentum usually carries on into the next period. This was true for the first two minutes of the second period as Scarborough took the play to Erindale and got a lot of shots, but no goals, on goalie Pete Smith.

Erindale stopped the momentum, if only temporarily, at 2:54 of the second period as Tim Stack scored on scramble in front of the Scarborough net. At this point the score read 5-1, in favour of Erindale.

For the next four minutes Erindale seemed to lay back on the lead, and as a result, Scarborough scored two quick goals to pull within two goals of Erindale.

The Warriors made it 6-3 at 7:29 of the second period when Randy Koroll scored.

For the rest of the period, Scarborough should've moved their team bench over to the penalty box as there were always two or three guys in the box. It was nice to see another team complaining about the officiating, it always seems to be Erindale. Even with all the powerplay chances Erindale could only come up with one goal as Neil McKeown scored with about two minutes remaining in the period. Going into the third period the score was 7-3 in favour of Erindale.

If only we could've ended the game after two periods! All the trouble started at 3:06 of the third period. Scarborough scored four unanswered goals and tied the game at 7-7 with their last goal coming with 1:24 left in the final period.

Scarborough was on a high as a result of coming back to tie the game. The game went into overtime and in the second overtime period, with 19 seconds remaining, Scarborough scored, taking the series to a third and final game.

The third game started slowly with both teams playing cautiously, taking few chances.

Erindale scored first at 5:58 of the first period on a beautiful goal by Neil McKeown. It was by far the prettiest goal of the year. Steve Yakimoff carried the puck up the right wing and over the Scarborough blueline. Just as he got over the blueline he dropped the puck back to Neil McKeown. McKeown took the puck, skated into the slot and put a slap-shot in the top left-hand corner of the net.

Scarborough came back at 9:20 of the first period to tie the game at one.

Scarborough wasted no time taking the lead as they scored a powerplay goal, 54 seconds into the second period. Erindale tied the game, and then took the lead at 6:54 of the second period on goals by Steve Yakimoff and Andy Mackin.

For the remainder of the second period the Warriors spent most of their time in the penalty box. The game was a rough one with both teams laying on the body. The second period ended with Erindale leading 5-3.

If the 'skate' before any period is an indication of what's to come, then it looked good for Erindale going into the third period. In the 'skate' before the third period the Erindale players were really fired up, hitting their sticks on the ice as they went around. And, as is habit, Captain Dan Barret was the last player to tap Pete Smith's goal pads before the period began. He tapped the two goalposts, Smith's goal pads, and his mask, in that order. Superstitious, or what?

Erindale had no good luck as Scarborough dominated the third period scoring four goals. Warrior goalie Pete Smith was shaky. On one goal the puck hit the upper part of his stick, then hit his glove, and bounced into the goal. This signaled the end for Smith as Coach Ted Nesbitt replaced Smith with Frank Jeffrey.

With 1:44 left in the game Dan Barret urged the team not to give up and they didn't. Coach Nesbitt pulled Jeffrey for an extra attacker and it payed off with Erindale scoring with 1:05 left in the game.

The Warriors left the goal empty for the rest of the game. They applied a lot of pressure but it wasn't enough. After losing two consecutive faceoffs deep in the Scarborough zone, the buzzer sounded and Scarborough went wild. The final score, Scarborough 7, Erindale 6.

It's difficult to say what went wrong. It was a combination of shaky goaltending and never-ending pressure by Scarborough. The third consecutive hockey championship for Erindale just wasn't in the cards.

This team is still one of the best Erindale has ever had. It's possible to name just one most-valuable-player from all of these guys. There are a number of MVP's: Dan Barret, Greg Gwynne, Neil McKeown, Chris Hundt, John Lenchak, Randy Koroll and Dino Bianco, just to name a few.

The team finished the regular season with a record of ten wins, two losses and one tie. In the playoffs they won two and lost two.

Time's Up

Brian Vickers
medium II Sports Editor

When it comes to interfaculy sports, few students realize that Erindale is one of the more successful colleges at the University of Toronto.

This year alone, Erindale teams have won 11 interfac championships.

With this being the last issue of the medium II, it is as good a time as any to recognize those teams that have won interfac championships this year.

As this article goes to press, Erindale's championship teams are:

Women's: Field Hockey: Division I-Erindale A
Division II-Erindale B

Innertube Waterpolo: Erindale B

Soccer: Division I-Erindale A

Division II-Erindale B

Ice hockey: Erindale Hustlers

Badminton (Doubles): Erindale

Swim Meet in mid-January, won by Erindale

Men's : Rugby: Division II-Erindale

Volleyball: Division I-Erindale

Squash: Erindale

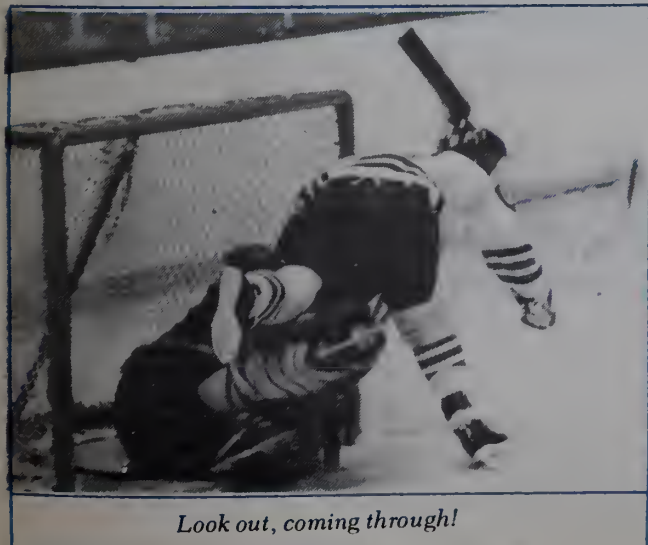

Congratulations to all the teams mentioned above and 'Thanks' to all Erindale teams for giving us a year of great sports entertainment.

This is the last issue of the medium II for this year. At this time I'd like to thank some people who have made the sports section of the medium II one of the best, if not the best, of all campus newspapers (eat your heart out Varsity).

First of all, this sports section would not have been possible without the superb work of our photographers. Thanks to our Photo Editor, Steve Falk who put in a lot of long hours, and to photographers, Andy Spears and Joe Hall.

To my writers, thank you for all your work this year; especially to 'Stump' Davis, Diana Dawson, Roger Badwal, Peter Bulas, Rino Anastasio, our new Sports Editor.

Last but not least, thanks to the people at ECARA for bailing me out from time to time. There were times when you submitted articles and saved the sports section. Just one suggestion, get rid of the corny bylines. Thanks to Mrs. Pearson, Brian, John and Barb.

Look out, coming through!

Cats' meow

By Diana Dawson

The playoff finals in women's floor hockey took place last week between the Stray Cats and Drivers. And the team "most likely to succeed" did just that. The Stray Cats came out on top again this year, defeating the Drivers in two straight games.

In the first game of the series, both appeared to be equally determined. In the first half, the Drivers' defences were down, allowing 5 goals to sneak past goaltender Joann Young. In the second half, they managed to score 2 goals, but the Cats kept up their scoring and added another 5 goals. The final score was 10-2, putting the Cats just one step closer to the championship title.

Going into game two and trailing by one game, which would make the difference between winning or losing the championship, the Drivers' enthusiasm and determination had not withered. They were more composed and made a great effort to overcome their previous loss. Yet, their hopes of winning were short-lived. The Stray Cats managed to uphold their winning streak, beating the Drivers by a score of 3-1, capturing the championship, and ending another season in women's floor hockey.

Poignant Race to adulthood

Sean Penn shows his innate skill at roller skating. Elizabeth McGovern is also in this movie but she isn't in this photograph. She was in another picture. But it was too boring. So I didn't put it in. Maybe I should have. Oh well. No use crying over unused photographs.

By Rino Anastasio

Richard Benjamin's Racing With the Moon is a poignant and provocative movie situated in the fictitious town of Point Muir in the 1940s. The movie centres around the three principal characters: "Hopper", (Sean Penn), Caddie (Elizabeth McGovern) and Nicky (Nicholas Cage) and how their lives are changed through a six-week period.

"The film is about the loss of innocence of three friends in the war. The leading characters have one foot in childhood and one foot in adulthood. It is that passionate, intense, confused time before becoming adults, a time when everything burns brighter in youth, even in wartime," says the movie's director, Richard Benjamin.

The movie is superb, without a dull moment in it. Hopper falls in love with Caddie who works as a cashier in the local movie house and also aids wounded servicemen in the hospital by bringing them books from the local library. Hopper assumes Caddie is rich, a "Gatsby Girl", because he followed her home one night on the back of a bus and saw her walk into a mansion. So Caddie fears Hopper loves her mainly for the person she is not and she hides the truth from him so as not to let him down. I shall say no more at this point. Go see the movie to find how this is resolved.

This passionate love theme is intertwined with the main theme concerning entrance into adulthood and its subsequent loss of innocence. As boys, Hopper and Nicky (best friends since childhood) would play the dangerous game of chasing freight trains, jumping onto the outside of a car and grabbing hold of railings to hitch a ride.

In the last scene, the duo, now ready for adulthood, must board the train to war as they have reached the enlisting age for the Marines. At the very last moment they race for the departing train and grab onto the railings of the last car, turning to wave goodbye — a goodbye to their boyhood for the war is about to strip away their innocence and naivete.

The twenty-three year old Sean Penn has starred in Bad Boys, Taps, and Crackers but is probably best known for his drugged-out surfer role in Fast Times at Ridgemont High. The lovely Elizabeth McGovern, already receiving an Academy Award nomination for her Evelyn Nesbit role in Ragtime, has also appeared in the feature films, Ordinary People, Lovesick with Dudley Moore, and is currently co-starring with Robert DeNiro in Once Upon a Time in America.

For a movie with a love story as good as An Officer and A Gentleman, Racing With the Moon is one film not to be missed this summer. The movie is playing now at the Hudson Bay Centre located at Yonge and Bloor.

Life After Press: the future

By Ann McEachern

I wondered what life would be like for each of the editorial board staffers once they set out on their prospective careers. So, I have decided to write the scenario for a possibly successful soap opera entitled: Life After Press (medium Who?)

We begin with Garth Hardie, who is now a successful editor of a Toronto-based newspaper. He's given up driving since he can run from one place to another in less time than it takes Federal Express to deliver. He's married too. He got married with the stipulation that if his wife can't fix the typesetter and processor, she goes. She's quite good about keeping up with her part of the marital requirement, but as soon as she slips up, she's gone! He also has a personal secretary to keep track of everything in his office (because of his inability to put his hand on something immediately).

Next we see Trish "the Pink" Meehan. She has become the road manager for Boy George and Culture Club. She has also started her own line of fashion outfits—pink sweatshirts and sweatpants (pink sneakers anyone?) Boy George has decided to start his own line of androgynous apparel; now Trish and Boy are partners: Meehan Boy Ltd. Boy George dumps Trish "the Pink" Meehan as road manager and now she's left wandering aimlessly about with no direction to her life. But Garth comes to her rescue and offers her a job as Production Manager at his paper. One of the job requirements is that she run from one building to another very, very fast (we all know she fills this requirement thanks to her years at medium II).

Brian "I'm an Olivia Newton-John fan" Vickers has started the Olivia Newton-John fan club outside of writing sports features for a sports mag in California. Since Olivia lives in Malibu, Brian is determined not to move too far away from his fav star. Brian is hired to do a feature on Olivia with a sports motif entitled: Olivia Gets Physical Part II. What a thrill!

Peter C. Gruner is now a professional mime and he can't answer his telephone because he doesn't talk. He has perfected his act of grabbing at dust in the air and catching feathers that aren't there. He's taken his mime routine (from talent nite at the pub) on the road. Donations can be sent to him; they are tax deductible. He desperately needs the money in order to hire a housekeeper to answer his phone so he doesn't miss calls from his agent. After many months though, he unfortunately was only able to hire a housekeeper who speaks Spanish, poor guy. I thought he had friends who would help. He's writing a book about his tumultuous year as medium II's Entertainment Editor (including all the dirty details.)

Steve Falk is working for Cosmopolitan as the head of photography (earning a healthy $50,000 a year). He occasionally hires Andy Spears to take some of the more risqué photos (think back to Andy's pics of female athletes. Do you think he's qualified?) Steve is a photographer in demand—by Brian for sports and by Trish for coverage of Culture Club and their fashionwear. Steve is so popular in the music and fashion world that he is considering hiring a double to help him fulfill all his commitments (can he do it?)

Last, but certainly not least, is Wilson Piriz who is currently battling a lawsuit out of court, filed by a native Uruguayan who was offended by a feature he read. He is suing Wilson for slander and libel against the company he works for in Uruguay. People still don't think Wilson's English is very good, but he's working on it.

Gruner Speaks

By Peter Gruner

Well, since it is the last issue, I thought I would directly address you guys. The readers, that is. That means you. Stop looking around and get on with the article.

Hi, that was fun. But life goes on. So get on with it! Read the rest of the paper. Do well on you exams. Have a safe but (heh, heh) enjoyable summer.

When, (if) you come back next year, step into The Press Box and ask if the new entertainment editor wants you to write a review for her. It's a great way to see free movies and plays. You can also get free records. It's worth a try.

NEWS BRIEFS

Elections off!

The 1984 EX-WHO Elections scheduled for Sunday March 32 have been cancelled.

After minutes of investigative reporting, the tedium moo has learned about this drastic change that will be announced publicly at a press conference later today.

When asked for an explanation, C. Scott McBumpkin, this year's CROW (Can't Read Or Write) replied that "It just doesn't matter."

Pressed for constitutional implications of incorporated body failing to elect a board of directors McBumpkin answered, "It's a bit of a squeeze. I mean the way the courts are bottled up now with constitutional issues means the EX-WHO case won't appear before a judge until 1990. I think the students will do okay without EX-WHO till then."

New CFRE

CFRE has changed the word-ing behind its call letters, from Radio Erindale, to Radio Encounter.

Following a recommendation to the McFrath-Latraine repot, the campus radio station has changed its format to that of a radio computer dating service.

The new station personnel include Gavin Kolding, noted philanthropist and author, and Park Malonio, who will serve as special liaison with the Dead Duck staff and patrons.

Sondar Fern, EX-WHO's famous socialite, is also reportedly interested in a financial position with the station, involving the handling of all expense accounts.

Principal pays

The tedium moo has recently acquired a top-secret documented circulated amongst the upper administrative staff.

In an attempt to further the recovery of College overhead costs, Vice Principal Ben Looks has sent a letter to Principal Paul Squirrel demanding immediate payment of rent for his occupation of the principal's house.

When asked for a comment, Ben Looks stated, "I'm just trying to cover all sources of revenue to make Erindale a better place to live and work."

Library cutbacks

Cutbacks have finally come to Erindale.

With the recent reductions in spending, Erindale Library has been forced to burn books to maintain a constant temperature of 10 degrees Celsius (40 F).

When asked for a comment, Mr. Smith, Head Librarian, stated, "Actually, we've received quite a few compliments for raising the temperature and increasing the lighting in here."

"Another benefit that we hadn't thought of, was that with fewer books, we can keep track of who's got which books out on loan much easier. Of course, this has meant an increase in Library to $10 per half hour for late books, but this has made Ben Looks, Vice Principal of Erindale, very happy, since College overhead costs are being paid for."

Free Food

Cleaver Foods, in an attempt to improve its relations with the staff and students of Erindale College has started to serve free food during lunch hours.

Students and faculty alike have flocked to scoop up as much as possible and take advantage of this generous offer.

Health Service have noted a small increase in complaints of stomach ailments.

"This is nothing out of the ordinary," stated Nurse Penny Silan.

Food and Beverages Manager, Red Scarlet, said, "I definitely think it's helped to improve the relations here at Erindale. I couldn't help but wonder though, if the disappearance of the orange cats has got any connection with Cleaver's success."

V.P. caught

Fave Tallet, EX-WHO V.P. (Vile Pig) of Finance has recently tapped into the University's complex computer system, EX-WHO's N.C.R.

When questioned as to why he attempted this, Tallet explained that he was trying to change the academic status of J.J. Dumbman, his roomie, from part-time to full-time, to meet the requirements for membership in the ECC (Erindale's Crooked Conspiracy).

Vandalism

In an attempt to prevent more Erindale teams from winning Athletic championships, the ECARA (Erindale Catering and Refuse Academy) van has become the victim of many sabotage attempts.

Efforts by local police to ticket overcrowded vehicles and towing stalled vans have yet to deter any Erindale women's team from winning.

Irene Driver, chauffeur and attendant said, "We believe it's the Smeth Biss organization trying to muscle in but we don't have proof." The tedium moo will watch out for more developments.

Editor walks?

On Monday March 26, rival newspaper editor of medium II (or rare), Garth Hardie, was seen walking down the 5-minute walk.

This rare event unfortunately was not photographed, and regrettably it will be a long time before Mr. Hardie may choose to be this radical again.

Gail MacDonald refused to tell the tedium moo what she thought of the outcome of the EX-Who elections. MacDonald claimed that she was all tied up.

Today, Young morons are asking some tough questions

"Will I suddenly be able to think after I graduate?"

"I don't even know what I'm good at, what kind of man should I be looking for?"

"I hear the government has some new freebie programs, how can I lie enough to make sure all of them are for me?"

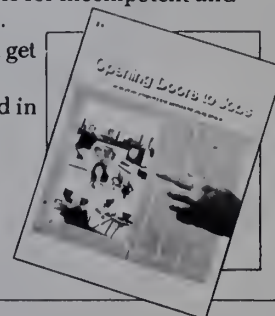

"If nobody wants to give me a job because I've got no intelligence, how am I supposed to get started?"

"Everyone keeps asking my name, how do I write it?"

"I'm looking for a woman who will support me. Where can I find one?"

Now there's a new book which answers these questions. It's called "Making Society Cater to Slobs" and it contains information on all the loopholes and rackets available for incompetent and shiftless people.
